

15 OCTOBER STAALBOUWDAG 2024

The Staalbouwdag (eg Steel Construction Day) is the annual event for everyone involved in commissioning, designing and building with steel. It is a day for knowledge and acquaintances: meeting acquaintances, establishing new relationships and learning about important, current developments and trends in the (steel)building industry.

The Staalbouwdag takes place in the middle of the country: the AFAS Theater in Leusden. This year we are in one central space: the Atrium.

This year, Building with Steel will organize the Steel Construction Day on 15 October in the AFAS Theater in Leusden, near Amersfoort. The Staalbouwdag is the annual event for all decision makers in the Dutch steel construction industry: from clients, architects and structural engineers to contractors, steel builders and suppliers.

They come to the Staalbouwdag to meet each other, to learn about the important, current themes and trends in steel construction and to get to know your company. This makes the Staalbouwdag the perfect platform to present your company in person to some 1,300 visitors. The Staalbouwdag trade fair provides an exhibition of new and innovative services, products and projects of companies and institutions for designing and building with steel.

Who are the visitors?

Directors, staff officers, department heads, buyers, consultants and project managers at architectural firms, consulting firms, engineering firms, construction companies, steel construction companies and professional clients.

- Focused on the buyer markets:
- steel processing and treatment
- surface treatment
- joining, welding and fastening products
- floor systems and roof & wall materials
- fire resistant materials
- steel semi-finished products
- construction equipment
- design and calculation software
- engineering services
- research and training
- recruitment and selection

Why participate?

The Staalbouwdag is the domain of the decision makers, influencers and tastemakers in the Dutch (steel) construction industry. They also expect to meet you there. As a participant in the trade show you can welcome them as (potential) customers. The Staalbouwdag will support you in achieving your participation objectives.

This support is based on 4 pillars

1. Creating new business
2. Relationship management & networking
3. Showcasing and demonstrating products, services, applications and solutions
4. Increase brand awareness and strengthen reputation

What does the visitor want?

For the decision makers in the (steel) construction industry, the Staalbouwdag is the informative day out: gathering new knowledge, sharing insights, meeting colleagues, establishing new relationships and investing in new products and services.

They are interested in, among other things:

- Automation of design and production
- New types, grades and applications of steel
- Sustainability and circular economy
- Structural safety and fire safety
- Innovative concepts and methods in architecture and structural design
- New products and services for designing and building with steel
